

Decree of the Ash-Sealed Writ Concerning Vharencrag Fortress, Hollowvale, and the Gauntlet of Sorrowfell

Let this writ be read beneath open sky, under roof, and before every sworn keeper of arms, stores, and regalia.

Vharencrag Fortress stands in the High Spires, founded in 84 AS. It is entered among the realm's core locations, though it remains contested. Its garrison is 9,478. Therefore, the fortress shall be treated as a place of formidable strength under continual threat. Its crags, walls, gates, and stores shall be maintained according to the pressure of conflict, and no keeper shall mistake a great garrison for an end to danger. The claim upon Vharencrag Fortress shall remain subject to the truth of the ground beneath it and the force able to hold that ground.

Hollowvale was founded in 286 AS in the Blood-Moor. It is garrisoned by 7,594 troops and remains outside the realm's core holdings. Therefore, Hollowvale shall be recorded as a defended vale amid an ominous land, vigilant by necessity and guarded without rest. Its watch shall not be diminished by distance from the core, nor shall its exclusion from the realm's core holdings be concealed in any account, seal, or report. Let every inventory, muster, and petition name Hollowvale plainly, lest silence invite ruin.

Concerning the regalia called Gauntlet of Sorrowfell: let it be kept under solemn custody and neither displayed as common ornament nor handled as a trinket. Its attunement cost is 12. Its forging date is not recorded in the supplied facts, and no keeper shall invent a year, claim a maker, or inscribe a false origin upon it. The Gauntlet of Sorrowfell bears an atmosphere of sorrow and grim authority; let those who approach it conduct themselves accordingly. Its name shall remain unaltered in all records, whether the record be scratched in iron, inked upon vellum, or spoken before witnesses.

Any hand that alters the stated founding years, garrison counts, territorial standing, contested condition, or attunement cost shall answer for the corruption of the writ. Any hand that supplies a false forging date for Gauntlet of Sorrowfell shall be judged to have forged more than a record.

So sealed: let the walls endure, let the vale keep watch, and let sorrow remain properly named.