

Petition for the Keeping of the Mournwatch Record

To the lawful hands who hold judgment over the guarded places,

I set down this petition concerning Halvard Sablewood, Brannoc Palefroth, and Mournwatch, that no careless tongue may grind their entries into ash.

Halvard Sablewood is a minor figure of the Ashen Era, born in 408 AS. He serves as a scribe, and by that service his mark belongs among the records that outlast swords and banners. No canonical physical details are recorded for Halvard Sablewood; his visual identity is associated with the work of a scribe. His canonical temperament is unrecorded. Let none therefore furnish him a face, a manner, or a motive from invention. Let his name stand as written, and let the absence within his account remain an absence rather than a license for falsehood.

Brannoc Palefroth was a minor character who served as a Falconer. He was born in 233 AS and died in 271 AS during The Winter Reckoning. No physical features are recorded for Brannoc Palefroth; his visual identity was associated with the work of a Falconer. No temperament is recorded. I petition that his service and his death be preserved without embroidery, for a plain line is better than a jeweled lie when the dead cannot rise to correct it.

As for Mournwatch, I affirm what every watchful soul ought to know: Mournwatch was founded in 244 AS. It lies in the Gloaming Reach, is garrisoned, and stands outside the realm's core holdings. Its visual identity is that of a guarded settlement set beneath the dim character of the Gloaming Reach. Its atmosphere is somber and vigilant, as befits a place whose doors must remain wary even when its lamps burn low.

Therefore I beseech the keepers of seals and shelves: preserve the account of Halvard Sablewood; preserve the account of Brannoc Palefroth; preserve the founding and condition of Mournwatch. Strike away no silence merely because it troubles the reader. Add no ornament merely because the page appears poor. The Ashen Era has already lost enough to flame, and the record must not be made poorer by the hands entrusted to guard it.

Set down in humble petition, under the dim watch of Mournwatch.
